Vitamin 'A'

"Laxman eye hospital provides free Vitamin A supplements to children under five years of age to prevent childhood blindness."

Have you heard about Vitamin A? Do you know anything about it?

Vitamin A is in some common foods that we eat in Bihar - green leafy vegetables like spinach, carrots, sweet potatoes and mangoes. Do you eat such foods? Regularly for Small children - under the age of 5 - Vitamin A is essential. If they don't get enough Vitamin A in their daily diet their eyes cannot develop properly. They will have problems seeing at night, there will be permanent damage to the eye- they can become blind. Our hospital is an eye hospital and we see many cases like this.

"Adults do eat this almost regularly, but what about small children?"

So we are giving these Vitamin A supplements to all children under 5 years, now and every six months until they reach 5 years. You should still try to give them food like spinach carrots etc. As often as you can. But sometimes it is difficult to do this EVERY DAY. So giving your child Vitamin A in this form will prevent blindness.
